OrangeHRM, a premier Open Source HRM solution releases version 2.1

Version 2.1 of OrangeHRM is released. The new version enhances the functionality and marks the fifth major release of the Human Resource Management System.

New Jersey, USA (March 21, 2007). The release of OrangeHRM version 2.1 was announced. OrangeHRM is an open source software application, which helps small and medium enterprises to manage their most valuable asset – people. The new version contains major improvements and fixes in Personal Information Management, Leave Management and Reporting modules.

The feature improvements in OrangeHRM 2.1 release include:
- Ability to define employee ID (previously it was auto generated by the system);
- Display more employee details in the employee list;
- Ability to search employee list according to more criterion;
- Application and assignment of leave, valid for a range of days;
- Auto notification emails for supervisors and subordinates after performing leave operations;
- Ability to view and modify leave summary information of all employees through one screen form;
- More fields added to reports;
- Full translation of OrangeHRM into Russian language.

 "The release of OrangeHRM 2.1 is very significant to our company because it demonstrates the utilization of the collective intelligence of our customers. It's functionality is fully based on the needs and demands of the OrangeHRM users' community, who were cooperating with the team while collecting requirements, designing and testing the release.", says Sujee Saparamadu, Chief Executive Officer, OrangeHRM Inc..

Version 2.1 is the fifth major release of OrangeHRM since February 2006. Within the last months, OrangeHRM reached more than 30,000 downloads and was ranked amongst the top 10 open source projects by SourceForge.net – an open source project repository.
